

THIS GLOVE IS GOOD AT DARN NEAR EVERYTHING!!

When our glove factory showed us their new light weight glove we were blown away by its tactile feel! This glove works equally as well as a batting glove, a curling glove, a shooting glove, a driving glove, and a general purpose tactical glove.

Our buyers loved it and added it to the line.

“What’s it called?” we asked.

“We don’t know.” they replied.

It’s a sport glove...and tactical glove! A high performance “sport-tac” glove.

We’ll call it the Sportacus.

But what makes the Sportacus so versatile? Quite simply its the construction. Specifically the design and materials. First the palm is made of a very thin split of Afghani goat skin.

Thin goat skin?

If you are going to choose a thin split leather for a maximum feel we ask you...What hide is tougher than that of a goat raised in Afghanistan? The factory then pairs this very soft, supple leather with a 4 way stretch nylon fabric on the back and other critical stretch points.

At the cuff, the factory provides a very nice, flat elastic that adjusts with hook and loop for the ultimate in comfort, and adjustable retention of the glove to the hand.
